TRUCTIONS FOR BRAKEMEN. keman on the New Jersey Souther Railroad who had been celebrating his grandfather's hithday was arraigned before the Long Branch Police Court a few days since. "You run on the carn, ch ?" asked the Court. "Yes, eir." "And you belong to that class of men who open the doors as the train stops at Searight and call out, 'See here Bright,' when you now he's not on the care !" The man was silent. "It makes my bones boil to think how I've been used on the New Jersey Southern," continued His Honor. The seats are locked, the water cooler empty, the windows won't stay up, and every few misutes you open the door and ery out 'Monmouth Junction,' when you mow h's Monmouth South. I believe I'll mark you for six months," "Please, sir-" protested the prisoner. "I must strike a blow at THE FOLLOWING ARTICLE WILL BE at this great evil somewhere, and I might as weil begin with you." "Please, sir, I was never here before, and it's my first drunk in four 'years." The Squire leaned back and chewed the corner of a blotting pad while he reflected. Finally be said : "Well, I'll let you go, though | HEADACHE, NEURALGIA, NERVOUSNESS, I'll be blamed for it. Now, air, after this you must adopt a different style. When the train approaches a station you want to go through the car like a cat, smile gently, and say in quiet tones, 'Ladies and gentlemen, this train is now in the outskirts of the beautiful city of Long Branch, and such of you as desire to stop off will please make ready; and may health and prosperity ever attend you." What an innova-Mon that would be, sir! How the traveling
